Dear Vince,

Your note of the ^{is} ~~three~~ "I believe you told me you've written ten books on the assassination. That's an incredible number. Are you sure its that many? Please advise because I want to mention this in my book."

I guess that in your research you do not consult standard sources of other work in the same field or you'd know that ten have been on sale in the stores or by mail. But you ask me if I am sure.

You refer to books "written." I have written what has no prospect of commercial publication but is intended to be and will be a record for our history. As of now there are about 50 of book length, several quite long.

They constitute a critique of both extremes, each with a topic of its own. When I began it was with the idea of "Inside the JFK Assassination Industry" and as it grew it got to be more like "Whoring with our History."

That is the ~~essence~~ ^{title} of one of them, Whoring with History: How the Gerald Posner's protect the ~~Killer~~ assassins.

Which is precisely true of those who stretch and imagine to seem to support the official myth of the JFK assassination. Regardless of who well received such books can be commercially, with each the media excusing its own past, its own publication, History will in time recognize the truth and the truth exists and is ignored by those who know they can't sell books of that content, books which say that. Books can write without the slightest effort to obtain and understand the rather clear actualities of the official assassination solution.

But of course arguing one side and pretending there is no other sides is not all that new to lawyers, is it?

Best,

Harold

I hope I'm still here to be in what you mean by "incredible" and "mention." Might even enjoy it. Long-odds hope: I'm 66. And still writing. And, of course, there are 30 book manuscripts do not include the many and ^{det} ~~en~~tailed and sometimes book-length affidavits filed in that dozen or so FOIA lawsuits some of which were precedential and one contributed to the 1974 opening of FBI, CIA and similar agency files. On the editing, I do for others, most recently while in a nursing home, when I also read the retyped ms. of one of mine. Your use of "incredible" comes for and belongs in a different generation.
